Music For All – Exhibition Design Project

Upon entering the room the participant will immediately emerge to in a world of music. Two large display screens right as you walk in, and two modern styled benches accompany them as seating. The floor is nicely carpeted and gives the participants a very modern clean feel as soon as you enter. Participants are able to interact with the display screens, sound effect and vibration through the walls. There are different types of instruments for participants to interact with on both walls. This is a good exhibition for all age and everyone to enjoy and participate.

Two large speakers are behind the two display screens for vibration and music enhancement. Participants are also welcome to dance in front of the two large displays.
